SIX GOT DIPLOMAS

Odessa High School Had a Fine Commencement Program

R. R. VAIL MADE ADDRESS

Six graduates received diplomas from the Odessa High School on last Friday evening. The commencement was one that has never been excelled in the history of the school. The Opera House was elaborately decorated with ferns, daisies, peonies, and draped in the class colors, black and gold with the class motto, Non Sibi Sed Aluis hanging over the stage.

The manner in which the graduates delivered their orations was very commendable and no doubt the class as a whole gives the town much pride.

Miss Robinson, Dean of D. C. for Women gave quite an interesting talk on the college and urged the girls to come to the new College.

R. R. Vale of Philadelphia delivered the principal address in which he spoke of the Culture of Man. He spoke most eloquently and everybody enjoyed it immensely. Dr. E. L. Cross Supt. of Schools of New Castle County spoke quite extensively and eloquently on consolidation of schools.

The principal Moody A. Robinson gave an address in which he refered to the school parents and graduating class.

The diplomas were awarded by Mr. George L. Townsend President of the Board of Education. Music was furnished by the Pool Orchestra.

The following program was rendered:

Orchestra.
Prayer, Rev. E. A. McLaurie,
Address, Miss Robinson, Dean of D. C. for Women.
Oration, Business of Women.....Blanche Wiest.
Oration, Consolidation of Schools for Delaware..... Lee Sparks.
Oration, Honor and Reputation....Delaware Lightcap.
Oration, Robert E. Lee, the True Southerner,.....I. Francis Croft.
Oration, Can Our Nation Fail?.....Norman P. Ward.

MUSIC AND RECITATIONS

In Glasgow on the evening of June 8th, in the Pencader Presbyterian Church there was given by friends from Wilmington, an exceedingly fine concert with recitations which was hugely enjoyed by the people who gathered there.

The threatening showers probably prevented very many from coming who would have attended but those who were present greatly enjoyed a feast of fat things.

Those who so kindly contributed to our pleasure were a male quartette from the West Presbyterian Church, of Wilmington, consisting of Prof. Jacob T. Clymer, Messrs John Roberts, Harry W. Frazer, and Lewis Fritz, and with these there were Misses Julia J. Beauchamp, Neotia C. Carvin, Irene Fulton (Elocutionist) and Mr. R. Lawrence Salter (Violinist). Miss Ida Appleby and Mrs. Salter were accompanists.

After the delightful program had been rendered refreshments were served in the basement.

Fish Industry Dwindles

The present fishing season is the worst in the life experience of fishermen in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, according to information sent to Congressman Linthicum by the Federal Bureau of Fisheries. So deplorable are the conditions that Mr. Linthicum will make another effort to get out of the Committee on Fisheries his bills which would give the Federal Government supervisory control of fishing in the Chesapeake Bay. The catch of herring and shad has fallen off to a mere remnant of former figures, according to a statement made to Mr. Linthicum, and so grave are conditions in the upper waters of the bay that the United States Fishing Station at Havre de Grace has taken only 50,000 shad eggs up to this time, when ordinarily it would have taken 50,000,000. The condition is regarded as most alarming in the history of the bay fisheries. It is now believed that some drastic action must be taken to save the Chesapeake Bay Fisheries from extinction.

DRAWYERS RE-UNION

A Large Crowd Attended the Annual Services

J. B. MOORE MADE ADDRESS

The two hundredth and sixth anniversary of the founding of Old Drawyer's Church was celebrated Sunday when over 1,000 persons from all parts of Delaware and several surrounding states gathered at the quaint old colonial church on the banks of Drawyers' Creek. The anniversary address was delivered by the Hon. John Bassett Moore, recent counselor of the State Department. At the morning services the Rev. Charles L. Candee pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington preached on the text, "Remove not the Old Landmark", as contained in Proverbs 23, 10.

The Rev. Edward A. McLaury, pastor of Odessa Presbyterian Church, presided at the anniversary meeting in the afternoon. After opening the meeting with a brief prayer Mr. McLaury introduced Daniel Corbit of Odessa president of the "Friends of Old Drawyers", who introduced Mr. Moore. In his brief speech of introduction Mr. Corbit told of the claim which he felt the people at Old Drawyers had on Dr. Moore in that he was a son of Delaware and was born so near the site of the church.

Among the visitors from a distance who attended the annual reunion at Old Drawyers Church on Sunday, were: Chief Justice and Mrs. James Pennewill, of Dover; Lieutenant Governor Colen Ferguson, of Blackbird; Judge H. C. Conrad, of Georgetown; John V. Craven, West Chester, Pa.; Thomas J. Craven, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dilworth, J. Oakfork Acton, Oakford W. Acton and Mrs. Loudenbough, of Salem, N. Graduates

DELAWARE CITY, DEL., June 11.—Commencement exercises of the High School here were held in Assembly Hall last evening. The hall was beautifully decorated with black and gold, the class colors, while there were large numbers of red ramblers, the class flowers, in view. Directly over the stage was the class motto: "To Thine Own Self Be True." The members of the class are: Misses Mary Emily Pordham, Helen Carlisle Bendler, Catharine Theresa Schunder and Arthur Bruyn Hope.

Miss Abigail Blackhurn, principal of the school, had charge of the exercises.

SAVING THE BONDS

By MONTAGUE GLASS.

It was a beautiful morning. A soft breeze from the river stole through Mr. Goodel's office window and eddied so gently around his bald head that, instead of sneezing, he sighed. Thence it ambled into the outer office and tugged at every button in the garments of Jimmie Brennan, the office boy.

"At Fulton Market dock," it whispered, "there's good swimming."

"G'wan, what yer tryin' ter do—kid me?" Jimmie's subconsciousness jeered, while its owner industriously continued to index the letter-book. "It'd freeze de insides out'n yer!"

So back it flew to Mr. Goodel.

"I ask you in all seriousness," it almost hissed, "shall commercial paper and investment securities prevail over golf?"

And Mr. Goodel, being of weaker stuff than Jimmie, closed his roll-top desk with a bang and seized his hat and cane.

"I'm going up-town on a very important matter," he said.

Jimmie looked at him mournfully. This cutting business an hour before noon was becoming too frequent of late.

"What will I tell Mr. Luddington?" he asked.

For a man of fifty-five Mr. Goodel blushed rather easily. The operation, however, might be termed painting the lily, for normally this gentleman's face was of a hue to pale the flamingo's wing.

"Why, tell him I've gone up-town on a very important matter, of course," he declared.

Jimmie glanced at Mr. Goodel and, dropping his eyes, snorted eloquently. Luddington was Goodel's brother-in-law, and the roseate hue of Goodel's countenance was largely due to his example and encouragement. Despite Luddington's convivial habits, however, Jimmie knew that he held a business engagement sacred; and on the previous day he had distinctly heard Goodel make an appointment with his brother-in-law for the purchase of some bonds. The securities were to be delivered in person by Luddington at a quarter to one o'clock that afternoon.

"How about dem bonds, Mr. Goodel?" he said.

"Oh, yes—about those bonds," Goodel replied. "When Mr. Luddington brings them here, put them in the small safe."

After a time Luddington entered.

"H'lo, Jimmie!" he cried in his usual jovial fashion. "Where's the boss?"

"Now he's gone up-town, Mr. Luddington," Jimmie replied, "on an important matter."

Luddington chuckled impatiently.

"That's too bad," he said. "I have some bonds for him."

"I know ut," Jimmie answered. "He says fer you to leave 'em wit' me."

"Oh, he did, did he?" Luddington cried testily. "Why, there are ten of them, at a thousand apiece, with the coupons attached."

Jimmie's face fell as he proffered Luddington an assurance he didn't feel.

For the rest of the afternoon Jimmie sat in front of the safe fruitlessly revolving the knob, resting herself at intervals by reading a thrilling dime novel. At four o'clock he locked up the office and wandered disconsolately down-stairs. There the sunny autumn afternoon propelled him to the river front, and, unconsciously, his footsteps shaped themselves toward Fulton Market dock.

He picked his way through the empty fishbarrels to the string-piece, where stood Ignatius Ryan, the same they call Whitney. Ignatius was garbed in a scapular and not much more, and his teeth chattered incessantly as the cold wind smote his naked shins.

"Why don't you jump in?" said Jimmie, seating himself on the edge of the wharf.

Whitney struggled with a temporary ataxia of speech.

"Aw, w-w-w-hy d-d-d-on't y-y-y-er j-j-j-ump in y-y-y-yers-s-s-s-elf?" he barely managed to enunciate.

By way of reply Jemmie emitted a succession of jeering guffaws which seemed to infuriate the shivering Whitney. Ignatius made a dash for his tormentor, and a moment later the two of them were struggling in a strong flood tide.

When Jimmie rose to the surface, half a dozen ropes were within easy reach. He was speedily hauled back upon the dock, shrieking lurid threats at Ignatius, whose repartee, revived by the sudden plunge, grew no less profane.

"Wait till I get yer wanst!" Jimmie shouted. "I'll lift de face off yer, dat's all!" And there followed a wealth of bitter anathema that might have enriched the vocabulary of a truckman.

Jimmie proceeded up the wharf and along South street, dripping a track of muddy water behind him. A salt stream ran down his face from his hair and mingled with the tears which came with a realization of his predicament. His cap was lost and his only suit of clothes was dirty beyond description.

In the excitement of the past half-hour he had entirely forgotten the bonds. At the remembrance of them his hand sought his breast-pocket. With shaking fingers he removed the pin and drew out a bundle of papers whose stained and soggy condition bore no semblance whatever to the crisp beauty of Mr. Luddington's bonds.

All that evening he sat in a flannel nightgown, busily plying a rubber eraser, but without avail, for as fast as he removed the spots his falling tears stained the wrinkled paper anew. His mother, meanwhile, stood at the wash-tub and renovated his muddy clothing with a vigor that testified eloquently to the thoroughness of his chastisement.

There was little sleep for Jimmie that night, and next morning, as he trudged, hollow-eyed, to his work, he turned over in his mind every justification he might proffer Mr. Goodel for his disobedience. He arrived down-town without having formulated any excuse, and a quarter of an hour late to boot. So preoccupied was he, as he mounted the steps, that he failed to observe two policemen who blocked the doorway, and plunged blindly into them.

"Where are you bound for?" one of them asked.

"Aw, let me go!" said Jimmie. "I wolk here."

"Oh, you do, do you?" the policeman ejaculated, and grabbed him by the shoulder. "What's yer name?"

"Jimmie Brennan," the boy replied.

"Come on, you," his captor said, and dragged the struggling Jimmie up-stairs.

Luddington and Goodel stood in the outer office as Jimmie and the policeman entered. Goodel's ruddy complexion had faded to a dingy shade of purple, and the corners of Luddington's mouth turned downward in a most unaccustomed fashion.

"Here he is!" the officer announced.

"Well, don't strangle him," said Luddington, with his hand on the door-knob of Goodel's office. He turned to Jimmie. "Do you know anything about this?" he asked, and threw wide the door.

Jimmie gasped in convincing astonishment. The little safe stood doorless on its side, in the middle of the room, surrounded by a pile of torn and scattered paper. Its iron door rested on Goodel's desk, while the doors of the big safe in the corner swung ajar, one of them supported by only the bottom hinge.

"He doesn't know," Goodel muttered.

"What time did you leave here yesterday?" Luddington asked.

"Four o'clock," Jimmie murmured in tear-choked accents.

Here the policeman took a hand.

"What time did you get home?" he persisted.

Jimmie sobbed convulsively.

"Six o'clock," he croaked.

"And where was you between times?" his inquisitor bellowed.

This was too much for Jimmie. He sank down with his head on the desk and wept unaffectedly.

"Now look here," Goodel protested, "I won't have the little chap bullied any more." He laid a comforting hand on Jimmie's shoulder. "It's all my fault, Luddington," he continued. "If I hadn't been an ass and gone off to play golf I might have put the bonds in my safe-deposit box instead of the safe, and they wouldn't have been stolen."

"Dey wuzn't in de safe," he said.

"What?" gasped Luddington, Goodel, and the policeman in concert.

"'N' it ain't up ter me, neider," he sobbed. "Whitney pushed me in."

"What d'ye mean?" Luddington shrieked.

For answer Jimmie unpinned his pocket and handed the soiled bonds to Goodel. They were as limp as Japanese napkins.

"I cleaned 'em as good as I could," Jimmie continued.

Then, piecemeal they drew from him a disconnected but comprehensive account of the day's adventures. It omitted nothing, not even the dime novel.

"Jimmie, you young dog," said Goodel, after he had regained his composure. "I forbade you ever to read dime novels in this office, and no sooner was my back turned than you did."

Jimmie hung his head.

"That's all right, Goodel!" Luddington broke in. "You told him to put the bonds in the safe and he didn't. I guess that makes it square, and you'd better forgive him."

A broad grin spread itself over Goodel's face.

"He gets one more chance," he said, pressing a bill into the boy's fist, "and $20 to buy a new suit of clothes with. Now get out of here, Jimmie—you smell like a fish-market!"

Worth the Price.

The following story, which an officer who is a member of the G. A. R. tells, appears in a western paper. "In a Phoenix hotel one night," he said, "a number of veterans got into a dispute about the battle of Bull Run. The veterans—all men of high rank—argued at length, but a quiet man spoke up and said:

"'Gentlemen, I happened to be there, and I think I can settle the point at issue.'

"And settle it he did. He settled it in a masterly manner. The hotel proprietor, much impressed, said to him when he got through:

"'My dear sir, what was your rank in the army?'

"'I was a private, sir, a full private,' was the calm reply.

"A short time afterward the private asked for his bill, since he was about to leave, but the proprietor said to him:

"'Not a cent, sir! Not a cent! You owe me nothing.'

"'Why, how is that?' the other demanded, in bewilderment.

"'I couldn't dream of charging you, sir,' said the proprietor, warmly. 'You are the first private I have ever met.'"—Youth's Companion.

New Whale.

Forest and Stream describes a new kind of whalebone whale that has recently been discovered in the South Atlantic. It is nearly as large as the finback, the more familiar whale of those waters; but instead of subsisting on minute crustaceans, it feeds on small schooling fishes, such as young herring and mackerel. The frayed ends of its baleen, or whalebone, are not curled into a woolly fringe, like those of the finback, which needs a fringe in order to entrap its minute food, but are straight and comblike. The new species has quite as much commercial value as its better-known relative.

An ounce of prevention may not be worth a pound of cure, but it costs less.

When a man is cornered he imagines that he did not get a square deal.

FINEST OF LINGERIE

UNDERTHINGS ARE OF DAINTIEST POSSIBLE MAKE.

Delicate Combination Slip That May Be Made Up Either in Crepe de Chine or Fine White Batiste —Easy to Copy.

Although underthings are as conspicuously negligible as possible, they receive more consideration than ever. It is important not only that each separate article shall incorporate the minimum of weight and bulkiness, but also that the lines of it shall be quite perfect. Just now, when empire effects hold sway, similarly waist lines of undergarments are raised, and, of course, there is no great amount of fullness in petticoats to interfere with the "hang" of a skirt.

Every one knows the inconvenience experienced in adjusting the regulation corset cover to the low-cut evening gown. Greatly preferable is a model that consists merely of a straight strip, with eyelets along the top through which is threaded a narrow tape of elastic. If the design of the gown permits it, bebe ribbon may be tied over the shoulders and a satin ribbon substituted for the elastic, which will not then be required.

All sorts of pretty conceits are being shown in the fascinating specialty shops in Vienna, in bodice and petticoat slips to wear under transparent lacy dresses, and in themselves they are so charmingly dainty that it would seem a shame if they didn't show just a little bit through the veiling of one's gown.

For example, there is this very quaint and delicate combination slip of the sketch, which is made up either in crepe de chine or finest white batiste. The short-waisted bodice is taken in to a narrow shirred belt and is topped by a narrow heading of itself, formed by running a fine elastic through an inner stitching of the hem. The shoulder straps and arm shields are of fine net puffing and they are caught to the cover under flat chiffon roses. The fastening is down the center back, made invisible by the use of very small snappers under the flap.

The petticoat has its upper portion only of the crepe de chine, for the remainder of the length is composed of strips of lace and bands of net puffing. The finishing ruffle is of net, and this continues up the side slashing and is topped by two chiffon roses.

Naturally these elaborate underthings are exorbitantly expensive in the shops, but if one is at all handy at sewing they are really quite simple to make and can be turned out at little expense. Anyway, it seems as if every woman should treat herself to one, or possibly two, of these lovely slips just to keep specially for her finest frocks, for in these days of delicate lacy outergarments fine lingerie is absolutely necessary.

If the model I have sketched seems just a little elaborate for your own particular requirements it can readily be copied in plainer materials and made quite as attractive and effective. But I really couldn't resist sketching the very prettiest one to be seen in one of these alluring little Viennese white shops.—Lillian E. Young, in the Washington Star.

MUCH GOOD IN BEAUTY PATCH

Idea of Her Grandmother Is Well Worthy of Adoption by the Woman of Today.

With a smile, a fan and a courtplaster patch a woman can do anything. Today woman has forgotten how to captivate by reserve and coyness. She pinks and reddens and blacks and whites her face like a mummer in the circus. Nothing is left to the imagination—unless it is how her face looks in a natural state. Her manners match her "assisted" complexion.

If women would keep their faces clean, well massaged and lightly touched with powder, adding a bit of black courtplaster to bring out the delicacy of skin tones, they would not only be ten thousand times lovelier in appearance, but in mind and heart and spirit. It is hard to believe that men admire women who are obviously cosmeticked; they have simply grown used to seeing them and try to make the best of it.

Another point. With a courtpalster patch as her only aid, a woman can draw attention to her best feature and subordinate any facial defect she may have.

If her chin is sweet and dimpled let her stick the patch upon it. If her eyes are good it will not hurt them any to let the little beauty mark linger near one corner. If her mouth is her loveliest gift the dot should be placed near by. Even upon the brow or on the neck a tiny crescent of black will do its pretty work. All complexions are improved by it.

In short, let woman take a lesson from her great-grandmother in some things—especially her beauty patch.

If You Are Artistic.

If you have artistic tendencies, which are crying for expression, there is no better way to express yourself than in your personal appearance and the arrangement and decoration of your home. Make yourself and your home works of art. You will find this much more worth while than wasting a large amount of artistic vitality on second-rate china painting, sketching, modeling and the like.

PARTY FAVORS WORTH WHILE

Really Useful and Pleasing Trifles May Be Devised for Both Men and Women.

A few of the really useful favors which may be provided for a small party are well worth considering.

For the girls there are the daintiest possible card cases of pasteboard covered with pale-toned Japanese crepe and decorated with a hand-painted flower design, that cost very little whether made at home or made to order. Then there are the work bags in Bulgarian colors that can be made of the blue and red wide ribbons which have recently gone out of fashion for sashes and girdles, but which are the prettiest materials imaginable for "fancy" things.

Any girl will gladly welcome a favor in the shape of a narrow-stemmed, tall Chinese vase in blue and white or blue, red, green and black, for it makes an ideal receptacle for hat pins when not needed for the single fresh flower which should be on every daintily-equipped dressing table.

It is also a good idea to give single teacups and saucers in oriental ware, because nearly every girl is now collecting a harlequin set.

The men will like the latest thing in oriental neckwear, the brown and white ties of Tanryoka crepe de chine which can be home-made from the pattern procured by buying one shop specimen. If it is too much bother to make these ties, the party hostess may provide watch guards in plain and substantial black silk ribbon. These guards are exceptionally good-looking and smart.

If there is to be only one sort of favor, provide bridge sets consisting of two packs of cards and a score pad, leather case inclosed. Everybody plays auction these days and everybody likes to own an individual bridge outfit.

NEWEST VESTS AND COLLARS

Severe Little Fitments of Pique Give Charming Effect to Almost Any Kind of Costume.

The extreme value of the white linen waistcoat front of pique has been proved, especially when fitted with the stiff outstanding pointed collar.

With navy blue gowns, black and white check coats and skirts, in fact, with all and every material, these rather severe little fitments are indescribably attractive. They look so fresh and crisp, and are so easily renewed, although they are naturally a little trying to brunettes.

Quite a number of black and white and dark blue and white check coats and skirts are specially ordered, and one was planned so simply, and yet so attractively, it certainly deserves description. The skirt was arranged with some loose, shallow folds in the immediate center front, that seemed to mysteriously melt away into nothing at the sides, the whole silhouette being kept very straight and slim. And the coat was just a loose, vague little affair, hip length, and closing with one large barrel-shaped cut jet button just at the waist, and so revealing one of the above-described vests and stiffened collars.

SMART FOOTWEAR

Like the fashionable frock of the season, the smartest footwear shows a combination of materials and a brightness of coloring that makes it unusually attractive. In this colonial patent leather is combined with gray suede in the slender long shape that prevails this year. Simulated straps cross the tongue, and are held at one side with gray pearl buttons, in suggestion of the fashionable buttoned effects in boots and low shoes. With an afternoon frock of black or gray, as well as in colors, here is a proper finish.

Color Contrast.

The color contrast is a marked feature of dress at the moment, and if it cannot be obtained in any way the flower at the waist or tucked into the corsage accomplishes it. A deep red rose, a golden chrysanthemum, a purple peony will lend just the contrasting touch desired.

Peacock feathers are now being gilded before they are poised on hats of gold or blue hemp.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By O. E. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 14

THE FRIEND OF SINNERS.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 18:9-14; 19:1-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I came not to call the righteous but sinners." Mark 2:17.

The first section of our lesson is the beginning of a new paragraph (see R. V.) and contains one of the Master's best-known parables. Immediately preceding this is the parable of the unjust judge and the importunate widow. We are plainly told (v. 9) why the Master spake this parable. It is easy to say that those who trusted in their own righteousness and "set all others at naught" (R. V.) were the Pharisees, but such is not the case; and this parable is a warning to us, lest we also trust our own righteousness (Isa. 64:6). Using this particular class as a background, Jesus paints, in words of simple grandeur, a picture quite familiar throughout the ages. In it he reveals the falseness of human standards and declares the judgment of heaven. The contrast is vivid. Let us look at (1) the Pharisee. The illuminating phrase is in the words "he prayed with himself" (v. 11). Ostentatiously the Pharisees separated themselves from their fellow men and this separation seems to have extended even into his prayer life, and he is withdrawn from God also. This is an appalling picture of the man who trusts only himself. Examine his prayer and we see the supposed prayer is really a paean of self-exaltation. It is true he begins by ascribing it to the Deity, but he ascribes no praise to God, no thankfulness for blessings received; indeed, he ignores God throughout after the introduction. On the other hand, his only recognition of other men is that of contempt for them. He is concerned altogether with his own excellencies and with the delinquencies of others. "I am not as the rest of men" (v. 11 R. V.). He extols proper virtues of morality, religiousness, orthodoxy and generosity, but went away unsaved.

Humility of Heart.

(2) The Publican regarded himself as "the sinner" (v. 13 R. V. marg.). He knew he was a great, an irreligious offender against law and grace. He had sacrificed everything to acquire money. He comes with no outward show except an abundant evidence of the shame and humility of his heart. He also was excluded from men but not from God. Burdened with the sense of his sin, he casts himself upon the mercy of God. He is absolutely devoid of any trust in himself, any contempt for others, and makes a straight, earnest, passionate abandonment of himself and his need to God. He goes away "justified" (judged right). Why? Because he had taken the right place, a sinner's place before God, and found pardon. No one who claims a place before God because he is a righteous man will be justified in his sight. The true way to God is the one of the Publican, not that of the Pharisee.

II. The Second Section is a story and deals with an individual case, Zaccheus, who was a "chief Publican." Jesus sought him (see Golden Text), whereas Zaccheus was animated by curiosity, and the writer informs us he was small of stature, hence the necessity of climbing the sycamore tree. He went up the tree because of curiosity, he came down because of conviction. He wanted to see this man in the center of the crowd and was amazed to hear Jesus call him by name and with the authority of a king commands his friendship and hospitality.

Must Yield Wealth.

Zaccheus was rich, dishonest, dissatisfied, but desperately in earnest, and a man of prompt decision. The estimation of his fellow-citizens is indicated by v. 7. Notwithstanding all of this Zaccheus was not so wedded to his money as to let it keep him out of the kingdom. In chapter 18 we read of the rich man who "lacked one thing." He was lost—"went away"—because he would not yield his wealth (see also 18:26, 27). What took place within the house of Zaccheus we are not told, but for the Master to enter was looked upon either as amazing ignorance of Zaccheus' character or else extreme carelessness concerning the maintenance of his own character. Jesus was dealing with one man, not the multitude, hence he leaves them to their amazement. While this is true, yet we can surmise something of that interview by the result (v. 8) for Zaccheus seems to have made a public avowal of his ethical and moral change of heart. Note the steps: (1) He "sought to see Jesus," John 3:14, 15; Isa. 45:22. (2) He was very much in earnest, "climbed a sycamore tree," Luke 13:24. (3) He made no delay, "make haste" Isa. 55:6. The result was that of great blessing to the people and joy in the heart of Zaccheus. (4) He was obedient, joyously and promptly. The genuineness of his transformation was evidenced by the way it affected his pocketbook. He made abundant restitution and gave bountifully to the poor. The love of God shed abroad in the heart of a miserly, selfish man or church will promote honesty both to God and man, and make men large-hearted, self-forgetting, ministering saints, Prov. 11:24; Rom. 12:13; II Cor. 8:5. It was as "Son of Man" that Jesus went to the house of Zaccheus. God's pattern, God's man. He made no reference to race, nor to caste. His purpose was to reach a "LOST" man and 'twas for such he came into the world, to "Save the lost."

From the combined parable and story we can read the lesson that Jesus is the friend of sinners and not of sin.

THE POWDER THREAT

SIGHT should not be last of the attempt of the administration in Washington to cripple or destroy Delaware's greatest industry. In seeking to establish a powder plant under government is emphasizing the old declaration that "republics are ungrateful."

When the record of the duPont Powder Company is recalled it is found that it has been for a century one of the bulwarks of the nation. It provided powder for use in the war of 1812, it furnished needed supplies of explosives during the war with Mexico, it kept the Northern armies supplied with ammunition during the civil war, and in 1898 it was prepared at a minute's notice to furnish every pound of powder necessary. In fact when the trouble with Spain arose there was a hurry call upon the duPont Company—an order to send all that was available. So well prepared was the powder company that the government soon discovered that it had really more than enough powder and directed a cessation in the shipments.

There was no delay. The country wanted powder and it was ready to be shipped to any point designated.

Ddring practically all its life the duPont Powder Company has been the main reliance of the government in time of need. Therefore the proposition to destroy a valuable feature of the powder industry in this State is to be looked upon as a most unjust, unfair and ungrateful proceeding.

The people of Delaware are proud of its great industry, and they should make themselves heard in positive opposition to the scene projected in Washington. In its relations with the government the duPont Company has been fair and open and generous. It has given the government its secrets, and now the government seeks to take advantage of that fairness. Nothing done er contemplated by the Wilson administration is more to be condemned than the threat to cripple a company which has for a century been in fact one of the most efficient and most necessary allies of the nation.—Morning News.

PRISONERS ESCAPED

A sweeping search is being conducted for the two prisoners who made a daring escape from the New Castle county workhouse, Monday, and Warden Leonard Crawford is confident that both men will be captured within a short time. The men made an escape by scaling the concrete wall surrounding the exercise yard, which is 20 feet in height and the dash for liberty is unparalleled in the history of the workhouse.

The escaped men are James Deshields and William Chamberlain. The former is 27 years of age and was serving six-years for assault and battery which would have expired next year, and Chamberlain was serving a three-year term for larceny. He was 24 years old and had been committed by the local courts although his home was in Kent county, Md. Deshields was sent to the workhouse from Kent county, this State.

The men were close pursued by a number of guards who lost their trail after they had darted into a thickly wooded section near Stanton. They were clad in the regulation of garb the workhouse, consisting of steel grey coat and trousers and hickory shirts with caps of the same material as their prison suits. The stripes upon the clothing were abolished at the workhouse some time ago and for this reason the prisoners would attract little attention once they had left the vicinity of Greenbank.

EAT PLENTY OF VEGETABLES

Now that green vegetables are here in plenty try to eat as many of them as possible. Greens are not always a popular part of the menu, but there is nothing better for the general health.

Spinach is a splendid scourer of the stomach and is good for the kidneye being an excellent tonic, because of its iron. Spinach need not be tasteless if it is nicely prepared, the tough stalks cut away and the sand and grit washed away. It is delicious with creamed dressing or it may be served on toast with poached eggs. Some people like it seasoned with a little vinegar, and it always looks tempting when decorated with rounds of hard boiled eggs.

Beets are also rich in iron and if not allowed to bleed in cooking by being pricked they are temptingly red. Tiny young beets cooked and served whole are delicious.

We all know the excellent propertiee of asparagus and this, too, should be enjoyed to the utmost while it can be produced. Young onions, and turnips and parsnips, all have certain medicinal and dietetic values.

CHILD LABOR LAWS DEFINED

State Child Labor Inspector Gibbons has issued a statement defining the law as it affects the work of minors during the summer vacation. He declares that the laws will be strictly enforced. Mr. Gibbons said:

"It is now drawing near the time when the schools will close for the summer vacation. Certificates will be issued to all children who have reached the age of fourteen years. Application to be made by either parent, guardian or friend, it will also require a school record, a doctor's certificate and a documentary evidence of birth. They will be permitted to work in any mill, factory, workshop, mercantile or mechanical establishment, tenement-house, manufactory or workshop, office building, restaurant, board-house, bakery, barber shop, hotel, boot-black stand, public stables, garage, laundry or as a driver or in any brick or lumber yard, or in any brick or lumber yard, or in the construction or repair of buildings or in the transmission of messages.

"There may be some occupations other than the above that will not require a certificate, and other occupations that will require the applicant to be fifteen or sixteen years of age, others eighteen and twenty-one. The inspector will be pleased to answer any inquiry by phone or otherwise, relating to Child Labor law. I am again compelled to call the attention of the newspaper distributors to Section 26. No boy under twelve years of age and no girl under fourteen years of age shall distribute, sell, expose or offer for sale newspapers, magazines or periodicals, and in my opinion they are more guilty than the children and will be dealt with according to the law in the future.

"Section 3 is general over the entire State and reads as follows: 'It shall be unlawful for any person to work any child under fourteen years of age in any business or service whatever during the hours the public schools are in session.' Some boys are selling papers after eight o'clock p. m., in violation of Section 23. They will save themselves considerable trouble by complying with this section. The parents of the children under twelve years of age will greatly aid the inspector by forbidding their children from offering for sale any newspapers or magazines or periodicals in any street or public place in Wilmington. We have dealt very leniently with them, but now that the law is generally understood, we will not permit it in the future. All newspaper boys are requested to make application for badges which shall be worn conspicuously at all times by such child while so working. When wearing this badge they will not be required to carry the permit which will be a great advantage to the boys. The badge will be ready in a few days. They will be furnished free of charge."

The badge to be worn by the newsboys is an attractive shield-shaped device of gildine, with polished nickel finish, with raised lettering, and a number for each boy. There are 226 boys to be numbered and badged.

GUNNING CONDITIONS GOOD

The reports received by the State Game and Fish Commission from all parts of the State show that the Game is rapidly increasing. Many broods of young quail have already been seen and rabbits are unusally plentiful. Supt. A. B. Merriam of the State Game Farm has just reported to Chief Warden Le-Fevre that 550 young pheasants have hatched, and over a thousand pheasant eggs are setting. Experiments are also being conducted on the State Farm with wild ducks and quail, and the indications are that the Commission will have many birds to distribute over the State for stocking purposes. It is hoped that a distribution can be made within a few months.

The game fishing has also been unusually fine. Most of the ponds and streams of our State afford unrivaled base fishing. Some of the grandfathers of this finny tribe have been landed since the season opened on May 20th. Quite a list of applications for fish for stocking purposes has been filed with the Bureau of Fisheries at Washington, and notice has been received that all of the applications will be filled in order.

The strong protest lodged with the Department of Agriculture against the Federal regulation, which prohibited Reed bird shooting in Delaware, has resulted in the Department issuing a notice that the Reed bird season would be restored to Delaware. The new regulation provides an oped season on Reed birds during September and October. This news has been hailed with delight by thousands of Delaware sportsmen, whose chief delight is hunting for the toothsome Reedie, as it again permits them to enjoy their favorite sport as heretofore.

Very few reports of violations of the game laws are being received and the general observance of the law is very gratifying to the Commissioners. A noticeable increase in the numbers of our native song birds is also reported, and beneficial results in the lessening of bugs and insects will surely follow. Every one is urged to co-operate in the good work, and gives the birds a chance. Dogs and cats are the worst enemies of the birds, and should be restrained from doing damage. Many stray dogs and cats infest our State, and should be destroyed on sight. The English sparrow is probably the worst enemy of our native birds, and communities are urged to wage an unceasing warfare upon them.

PARCEL POST & ADAMS'

Express Company Preparing To Compete For Produce Trade

The Adams' Express Company is preparing to deliver food products direct from the producer to the consumer, thus making possible a reduction in living expenses. The inauguration of the system means the elimination of the middleman, or, if not his total elimination at present, a narrowing of his field of operations, which are costly to the consumer.

As a beginning in this new undertaking, the Express Company has established an Order and Food Products Bureau, with headquarters at Eighteenth and Market streets, Philadelphia. With experience gained from this beginning and with the success of the bureau assured, it is proposed to establish similar bureaus in all large centers of population, including Baltimore. The idea is to increase efficiency, promote methods and stimulate interest in bringing the farmer, producer or dealer and consumer closer together, believing that each will be benefited thereby.

The farmer, producer or dealer quotes prices on his own products. The prices quoted are then issued in the form of a circular, and distributed through the different agencies of the company, and also through clubs that may be formed to handle food products, as well as hotels, restaurants and individuals. The quotation circular contains instructions as to the manner in which orders are to be placed, it being necessary for the person desiring to obtain any of the articles listed, to purchase an Adams' Express Company's money order from the agent of the company, deliver to him the order for goods with the money order, and he will do the rest, the only additional payment being for express charges.

The advantage of the new order of things to the farmers, truckers, fishermen, crabbers, oystermen and others will be seized upon, if it works satisfactorily.

$10,000,000 IN PENSIONS

Approximately ten millions of dollars have been paid out of the companies' revenues in pension allowances to employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad system up to May 1, 1914, according to a report just issued. The exact sum paid out to date is $9,912,667.95.

The pension roll, or "Roll of Honor" as it is termed by the company, contains 4,123 names. Of this number 63 were added in May, making a total increase of 306 names since the end of last year.

Some idea of the scope of the pension system of the Pennsylvania railroad may be gathered from the fact that since the "Roll of Honor" was established on the lines east of Pittsburg on January 1, 1900, and on the lines west a year later, 8,947 employes have enjoyed its benefits—of that number 3,924 have died.

The Pennsylvania was the first American railroad to establish for its employes a pension system wholly dissociated from any other provident undertaking, and financed exclusively from the company's revenues. Last year the total appropriations on the lines east and west of Pittsburg for pensions amounted to $1,168,584.53.

$10,000 IN NEEDED BY BOARD

The organizing committee of the proposed Delaware Society of Civic and Social Welfare held a meeting in its temporary office at the duPont Building. There was an interesting discussion of the work.

Some members of the committee in talks with friends had been asked a question of the need for $10,000. This shows that the people of the State have not yet appreciated the thoroughness and extent of the work planned and what it means to do the work right. There is no agency in the State at present familiar with the details of all welfare work and legislation.

Very few citizens can answer the question as to just where Delaware stands in the matter of civic and socia. progress in its many departments. There is a need of study to be carried on with thoroughness and serious purpose. To make this study worth while by gathering first hand and accurate information of conditions within the state and experience outside of it, will require available funds. To treat as a whole the improvement needed in the state and decide on the relative urgency of special questions, the General Service Board must be familiar with the details of all questions, and reduce them to a basis for study and presentation to the public. This will mean that qualified representatives must devote consecutive days to the preparing of data on many points and that a capable general secretary conduct investigations and carry out the work.

Once the study of a question or questions has been completed and the society as a whole has voted on a line of procedure in regard to approved measures, the efforts of the board and general secretary will be devoted to an educational campaign. The thoroughness efficiency of this campaign will again depend upon funds for bringing the necessary information before the people of the State in a telling manner.

In many cases the hard and unselfish work of a small group of people in the State has failed or ended in compromise unsatisfactory to business interests and reformers alike. Had such a General Service Board and society been in existence to conduct hearings and prepare an impartial setting forth of the situation based upon thorough and comprehensive study and investigation supplementing and backing the efforts of the original workers, the history of these movements might have been more satisfactory.

While the educational campaign is being carried forward by the General Service Board on any particular approved problem which calls for legislation, the legislative committee will be preparing for the final presentation of the measure before Legislature or Council, employing the outside legal assistance necessary. For, by whatever individual or group of individuals bills may be presented, legislation itself which is to fulfil its purpose for the permanent and effective protection of human rights and the preservation of the material well-being and resources of a community must be prepared under the direction of trained minds.

There is no limit to the possible activities of such a permanent body as the proposed Delaware Society of Civic and Social Welfare with its active general service board. There are many questions concerning which it is not necessary to go to law. Only an awakened conscience or accurate knowledge on the part of the public is sufficient to conditions of to-day.

Will Peal Tomatoes

SEAFORD, June 8.—Local canners are very much interested in a machine for peeling tomatoes, which, if successful, will do away with the employment of a large number of men, women and children. Such a machine would obviate anxiety canners suffer when factories are full of perishable goods and the laborers are off attending a picnic, circus or some other amusement. In the past years the local canners have been at their wits' ends at time to knew just what to do when a large quantity of ripe fruit was dumped in the yards and the employes stopped work to attend a circus.

The new machine is not perfect yet, but a few of them will be in operation this summer. Its capacity now is about 90 tomatoes per minute, with two girls feeding it. The tomato is not touched by hand being peeled and the waste is much less than by hand peeling.

DELAWARE COLLEGE

SCHOLARSHIPS AT WOMAN'S COLLEGE

Several scholarships at the new Woman's College have already been provided for, and it is quite probable that others will be provided for in the near future. The recently organized Delaware Association of College Women offers a scholarship of $100 to the girl who passes the best entrance examination as set by the faculty of Delaware College, on June 2d, at Newark. Of this amount, $50 will be paid in September and $50 in February. The State Federation of Women's Clubs also offers a scholarship of $100, to be awarded to the girl who makes the second highest grade in the foregoing examination. The Alumnae Association of the Wilmington High School gives a scholarship of $100 to the girl graduate of the class of 1914 who makes the highest grade in a competitive examination to be held at the Wilmington High School. A fourth scholarship of $100 is offered by High School Association of Milford, to the girl graduate of the Milford High School who attains the highest standing in all respects in her senior year.

CELEBRATION AT COMMENCEMENT

The Alumni celebrations will be a special feature of the Commencement Exercises this year. On Tuesday afternoon, June 16, immediately after the Inter-Class Track and Field Meet, the Alumni will assemble on Frazier Field by classes, and have a costume parade. The men in the younger classes will wear fancy costumes, and for the older alumni fancy sashes will be provided. The parade will be led by the Delaware College Band. At eight o'clock, in the evening all Alumni will assemble at the Deer Park Hotel for an informal supper and cabaret entertainment. On Wednesday, June 17, the alumni will have a special luncheon in the gymnasium. The luncheon will be followed by the regular business meeting. A greater number of the alumni are expected back this year than ever before.

GUIDES FOR COMMENCEMENT VISITORS

For the purpose of showing and explaining to visitors at the exercises of Commencement Week at Delaware College, the plant and equipment of the College, the Publicity Committee of the Faculty has arranged to have student guides through the buildings, laboratories, and class rooms, any persons who may so desire. These guides will be stationed at the main entrance to the campus, where they will be accessible to visitors an any time from nine o'clock in the morning until six o'clock in the evening, (except when the College battalion is giving exhibition drills) on Tuesday, June 16, and Wednesday, June 17.

ARTS AND SCIENCE CLUB MEETING

The Arts and Science Club of the Delaware College Faculty held its final meeting of the year at the home of Professor H. E. Tiffany on Tuesday evening, June 9. The subject for discnssion was "What Shall Be the Future Policy of the Arts and Science Club?" The club enthusiastically decided to continue its meetings next year. Several new projects were proposed, but it was decided to take no definite action in regard to them until the opening of College in the fall. Officers were then chosen for next year. This meeting brought at a close a profitable and highly successful year's work.

DR. W. O. SHEPHERD GIVES LECTURE

Dr. W. O. Sypherd addressed the students of the duPont High School on Tuesday, June 2, on "Literature and Life". The speaker attempted to explain what is meant by such an expression as "English Literature reflects the thought of English speaking people of all times." He pointed out that on two general ways English Literature is connected with the life of the people; first, by giving us definite information about the manners, customs, and ways of living of the people, and second, by presenting under specific conditions, emotion and thought which are common to people of all times. To enforce this statement, Dr. Sypherd gave a running summary of the main periods of English Literature and considered several of our representative authors.

SUCCESSFUL BASEBALL SEASON

Delaware College closed its most successful season on Saturday, May 30, by defeating Western Maryland College 12 to 2. Delaware opened the College season with a defeat by John Hopkins. The ouly other game lost was the Washington College game which Delaware practically threw away by miserable fielding. Delaware defeated some of the best college teams in the East, including Swarthmore and Rutgers. Two games-one with St. Johns College and the other with P. M. C. of Chester had to be cancelled on account of rain. Although the whole team has played consistent ball, much credit is due to the two men who have done the pitching Geoghegan and W. Hoch. Geoghegan, who played right field when he was not in the box, also led the team in hitting. As only three members of the team will be lost this year through graduation, next year's team should be even stronger than was the team this year.

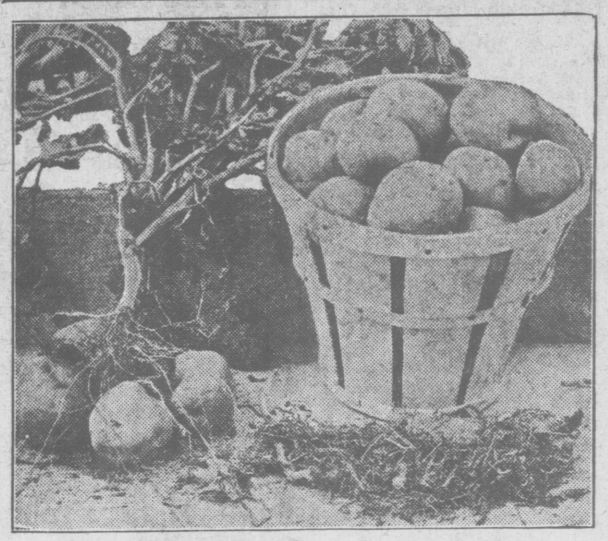
EFFECTIVE REMEDY FOR THE POTATO BUGS



This Is What Cultivation Does for Potatoes.

(By W. MILTON KELLY.)

Potato bugs are like interest on a mortgage; they work days and nights. When the broods first begin to hatch, it is the time to act. The only remedy, practical and effective, known at present, is paris green. This is mixed with water and scattered on the plants.

To each barrel of water use seven pounds of cheap flour and one pound of paris green. Mix the poison and flour in a bucket containing about two gallons of water and stir until thoroughly mixed.

When the whole mixture is thoroughly mixed pour into the barrel of water on the spraying machine and keep the contents of the barrel well stirred while the sprayer is in motion.

The only serious objection to this mixture is that it tends to clog the screens in the pump. This can be avoided by having the screens so that they can be taken out and cleaned in a short time and the spraying go on without further interruption. The operation may seem troublesome at first, but one spraying kills all the bugs and it doesn't matter if it rains within two hours after it is applied.

Dew and rain will not wash it off and traces of it will remain for two weeks and continue to destroy all new hatchings of insects. The flour forms a paste that catches all the particles of paris green and in turn adheres to the plant leaves. In a field sprayed thoroughly in this way a second operation is not necessary. The pump may be put away and the grower rest assured that he is through for the season.

The sprayer should not be driven too fast, but each plant be allowed to get its full share of the poison. One barrel of the mixture should be enough to cover about two acres.

SUMMER QUARTERS FOR THE PULLETS

One of the Fundamentals in Raising Profitable Poultry—Description of Hen House.

Comfortable summer quarters for the growing pullets is one of the fundamentals to success in raising profitable poultry, be it on a back lot or on the farm. The farm however has the advantage of plenty of room where houses may be moved about.

One of the best houses we have ever tried on the farm for summer use, both from a standpoint of economy of construction and general satisfaction, was an eight by ten one built of two by fours covered with one-inch wire netting, with a covering of burlap over that, says a writer in an exchange. There are no floors in the houses, but they are weatherboarded up around the bottom to a distance of two feet. Two feet of the entire front is left open to furnish fresh air. The roof is sheathed with half-inch material and covered with prepared roofing.

Pine is used as the framework. One two by three at each corner, and one in the middle of the back and each end, to set in the front door where the door is swung. That is all the studding used. Three rafters and the necessary plates at the top and bottom of the walls complete the amount of frame material used. This makes a substantial and at the same time a light house that can be slipped on a sled and moved from place to place.

The advantage of having the walls weatherboarded up a few feet is not so much in the protection that it affords as in the strength it gives the entire structure. It likewise furnishes a place where the lower edge of the burlap may be fastened so that it will not become loose.

COWPEAS ARE GOOD AS EGG PRODUCERS

Hens Seem to Relish Small Branches and Leaves and All Small Particles.

Cowpeas are not only relished by hens, but are excellent egg food for them. One successful poultryman gives this experience: The peas, after maturing, were harvested and stored in dry lofts, and thrown to the fowls in scratching pens, where they were scratched over and searched for during the day.

After a few days the egg supply was visibly increased, and within a few weeks almost doubled that from an equal number of hens kept in separate quarters and fed on other grains. The hens seemed to like the small branches and leaves, and would eat every particle except the hard, stiff stems.

The general health of the flock was excellent, and not a single hen showed the least symptom of ailment during the winter season. Considering the ease with which cowpeas may be raised, it seems that everyone should give them a test as food for the poultry.

Trees Grow Fast.

Trees grow fast, and one does not have to wait a great many years in order to be able to enjoy the benefit of their growth.

Leakages Eat Profits.

Leakages will destroy the profits in any business and dairying is no exception.

Undesirable Dog.

The dog that bites the dairy cow deprives the owner of a considerable amount of cash.

HOW TO CARE FOR YOUNG SEEDLINGS

If Plant Can Be Kept From Wilting Great Advantage Is Gained—Soak Roots.

It frequently happens that the home grown seedlings come on quite as quickly as the greenhouse ones, even though smaller when placed in the garden.

Some plants a few inches high, of the Earliana variety, were set out, and a little later four excellent greenhouse specimens were secured.

They were thrifty, large and just ready to bud; and the prospect of having an early treat from them was most promising. But though extra precaution was taken against wilting, one died, and the change from artificial conditions was a shock from which the rest recuperated slowly. Meantime the home grown plants forged ahead and ripened fruit a week or two in advance.

Before transplanting any young plant it tis wise to let the roots soak in water several hours. By this means the pores are full of water and the plant is much less prone to wilt.

Choose a cloudy day or plant at sunset so that the plantlet may have all possible chance to get righted before the hot sun strikes it. If it can be kept from wilting a great advantage is gained as the growth is not checked. This may seem a small matter, but it means a great deal—not only the saving of a week in the growing period, but perhaps it avoids the repairing of lost vigor.

Put a cup of water in each hill before setting the seedling, firm the earth about the roots and protect with leafy twigs or a paper cap if the sun is hot.—E. V. B.

TO PREVENT INJURY BY THE CUTWORMS

Clean Cultural Methods and Rotation of Crops Are Advisable—Also Fall Plowing.

When cutworms occur in serious abundance, which happens in some seasons, they migrate from one field to another, assuming what is called the army worm habit. While the methods which have been advised are valuable in such cases, they are too slow to destroy all the cutworms, and we, therefore, have to employ other methods. These include trenching, ditching, the plowing of deep furrows in advance of the traveling cutworms to entrap them and the dragging of logs or pieces of brush through the furrows. If the trenches can be filled with water, the addition of a small quantity of kerosene so as to form a thin scum on the surface will prove fatal. These remedies are also applicable to the beet army worm and species of similar habits.

As a preventive of injury by cutworms and army worms, clean cultural methods and rotation of crops are advisable; also fall plowing and disking. Cutworms, army worms and many other insect pests are destroyed where it is possible to overflow the fields.

Rye as Pig Feed.

The most satisfactory way of using rye as a pig feed is to grind and feed it in the form of a slop. If the meal is soaked from one feed to the next, better results will be secured, and it is better to feed in combination with other grains than alone.

Economy in Silo.

The largest sheep feeders have adopted the silo as a basis of economical production of mutton and wool; the owner of a few sheep has in the chicken silo the same advantage.

DAIRY

CULLING OUT BOARDER COWS

Farmers Need Not Maintain Charitable Institutions for Poor Animals—Keep Records.

If a farmer feeds a cow $1 worth of feed and she gives back 65 cents worth of milk—no, this is not fiction, and the man was not a fool who fed the cow. He thought she was his faithful friend, and all the time she was ruthlessly short-changing him. She is not the only one. It just happens that she got found out. Maybe you have a cow in your herd that skims the milk before she gives it to you.

Twenty-six Dickinson county farmers organized a cow-testing association last year, with the help of the Kansas Agricultural college. They hired a man to do the testing. He worked at the home of each man one day every month. The cost to the farmers was about $1.50 for each cow for the year. There were 379 cows entered.

Before the plan had been in operation very long some of the farmers began to sell cows. They would have been deliberately robbing themselves if they had not sold after they found out how poor certain of the animals were.

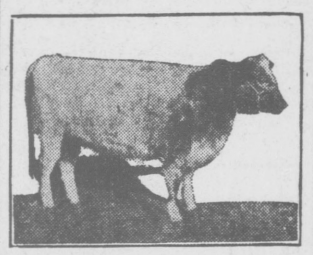
At the end of the year the association had complete records for 134 of the cows. These 134 cows averaged a return of $2.75 for each $1 worth of feed consumed. The best one gave $3.59 and the poorest gave 65 cents for each $1 in feed. The five poorest averaged a profit of $7.30 each, and the five best cows averaged a profit of $101.28 each, for the year. While the man with the poorest animal lost $11.65, the man with the best gained $145.21. The average profit on the whole bunch was $62.31 a head.

PROPER ATTENTION TO COWS

Kindness Is Good Thing to Observe Around Dairy From Standpoint of Dollars and Cents.

Some cows ought to be milked three times a day. Their bags get so pressed with milk that they cause a great deal of pain. And then the milk will be better if drawn before it has stayed so long in the overheated udder.

Some men think that they must keep the cows always in fear of them or there will be trouble. That is a poor way to do. The cow that is always afraid that somebody will yell at her or hit her a whack with the milking stool is not in a position to do her best. She will not give as much milk and it will not be as good milk, either. Kindness is a good thing from the standpoint of dollars and cents.



A Fine Family Cow.

The earth is dry enough now to permit of letting the calves out every day. Put them under cover nights. You ought to have a place where the calves can always get out of the sun and the dew and rain if they want to.

ATTENTION GIVEN TO COWS

Astonishing How Many Dairymen Are Keeping Bovines Instead of Animals Keeping Them.

The man who is making money in dairying is the man who thinks. It is astonishing how many men are keeping cows instead of cows keeping them, because the men do not think. A thinking man will not keep cows that do not pay a profit on the feed they consume. There is no way to determine the value of the individual cows except by keeping an account of the cost of feed and the value of the products of each cow.

This method often leads to increasing the profits by more judicious feeding and more efficient milking, or in other words it requires giving each cow individual attention.

Some dairymen may think that this work requires too much time, but after trying it out they are usually surprised to find how little time it really takes to keep an accurate record of the business. Every dairyman should be a business man.

Regularity Is Important.

Regularity in milking and feeding is an important thing in connection with successful dairying. The cow looks for her feed at a certain time and if she is accustomed to being milked at a certain time, she will do better if that plan is followed systematically.

Benefit of Silo.

The silo has proven itself a great benefit each year and it will do just as well in years to come. This season has been an object lesson in favor of silos on every farm where stock is kept.

Feed for Chicks.

Young chicks start slower on a diet of whole grain, but develop better digestive capacity and later will stand heavier feeding and develop better than those kept too long on a diet of ground feed.

Break Up Broody Hen.

Setting hens which are not to be used for incubation, should be broken up as soon as they begin to show a desire to set. It will be easier at that time and they will get to laying again sooner.

The Sergeant's Resource.

Now the United States has sent a military expedition to Mexico we shall hope to hear something of Sergeant Murphy, says London Tit-Bits. During some maneuvers in the Philippines the sergeant was in charge of a patrol. The men, when getting tired of the day's operations and eager to get back to camp and supper, came to a mountain torrent spanned by a bridge which was unluckily placarded "Destroyed." Much averse to a long detour, Sergeant Murphy did a little reconnoitering, and finding no sign of an enemy in the neighborhood, led his men to the bridge. Half-way across they were surprised by a galloping officer.

"Hi!" he shouted. "Can't you see that this bridge is supposed to be destroyed?"

"Sure, I do, sir," answered Murphy; "but this department is supposed to be swimming."

HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

604 Greenville Ave., Staunton, Va.—"My head broke out in pimples which festered. It itched me so that I would scratch it till my head got almost in a raw sore. My hair came out gradually and it was dry and lifeless. Dandruff fell on my coat collar till I was ashamed of it. My head had been that way all summer, itching and burning till I couldn't sleep in any peace.

"I tried salves but it looked like they made it worse. I got ——— but it did me no good so I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of the Cuticura Ointment and you don't know what a relief they gave me. In two weeks my head was well." (Signed) J. L. Smith, Oct. 28, 1912.

Commas and the Law.

The comma in the British act of parliament which has caused a dispute between Monmouthshire miners and their employers recalls the fact that such marks of punctuation were introduced into law only half a century ago. Down to 1850 all acts of parliament consisted, in theory at all events, of one sentence. In that year a special statute was passed to allow the text of legislative enactments to be punctuated and pointed by full-stops, etc. They are so easily interpolated and altered that lawyers know their danger and avoid them in legal documents.

Known of Old.

"Ambassador Thomas Nelson Page, like most married novelists, treats married life in his books from the inside, as it were," a Washington woman said on her return from Rome.

"At a tea Mr. and Mrs. Page had a ludicrous argument over something or other, and when their misunderstanding was satisfactorily cleared up Mr. Page laughed and said:

"'This seems like a chapter that has slipped out of a novel, doesn't it?'

"'It seems,' Mrs. Page retorted, 'more like a chapter that will slip into one.'"

SINGS PRAISE OF "BIGNESS"

Writer in Leslie's Weekly Sees Good in Everything That Has Qualification of Size.

Big! It is said that the soil that produces big crops is found where big men abound. After all bigness is something of which every one is proud. California boasts of its big trees, Oregon and Washington of their big apples, Texas of its big territory, Oklahoma of its big oil wells, Colorado of its big mines. New England of its big mills, Alabama of its big iron deposits, Pennsylvania of its big steel industry and New York of its big banks. Everywhere bigness is the boast of civilization. Nations vie with each other to command the biggest part of the world's trade. In this great struggle for commercial supremacy the United States, during the past decade, has been among the foremost because of its big men in the industrial, the railway and professional fields. The product of this bigness of men has been a big country with big wages. Let us stop caviling and finding fault. Let us put and end to busting and smashing, and give the widest opportunity for individual effort. Encourage bigness of the factory and the pay envelope alike. Give big brains a chance, whether in bank, counting room or workshop. Bigness pays.—Leslie's Weekly.

In Difficulty.

A newly-married young woman had a gas cooker fixed in her kitchen. The gas company sent her a card of rules, with instructions to study them well, and what she couldn't understand they would explain to her. Imagine the clerk's surprise the next morning when he read the following note:

"Dear Sir—I can understand all the rules except the one at the bottom of the card— 'See other side.' It's impossible to see the other side; the man has fixed it against the wall."

Long-Delayed Postcards.

During the removal of an enamel plate from a letter box outside the post office at Stanley Road, Teddington, England, three postcards dated October, 1891, were found wedged between the plate and the frame of the letter box.

Although the cards were much discolored after their 23 years' rest, the addresses on two of them were decipherable, and they have been delivered.

Quite True.

The vicar of an English mining village sent a pair of boots to the cobbler's for repairs, but Bill, who had been imbibing rather freely, felt no inclination for work, so the boots were not touched that day. Next morning his nerves were rather shaky and he longed for "a hair of the dog that bit him." His own boots were rather dirty, so he thought there was no harm in putting on the parson's, when he accordingly did, and turned off into the village pub. for a big "reviver." He had not gone very far when whom did he meet but the vicar, who said:

"I sent my boots down for repairs, William. Are you not finished with them yet?"

"Wey, mistor," answered Bill, calmly, "they're not mended yit, but they're on the road."

Ancient Calf.

Awkward mistakes occur sometimes through falling into certain mannerisms of expression. A parson had a habit of frequently saying "for years and years and years," in the course of a sermon. He was preaching on the Prodigal Son, and spoke of him sitting down in that far-off land thinking of the home that he had not see "for years and years and years."

That was all right, but presently he spoke of the welcome to his old home, and of the calf which his father had kept in anticipation of that happy day.

"Yes," said he, dropping into his favorite cadence for the winding up of a sentence: "Yes, the calf which he had kept for years and years and years!"

Then somebody laughed!

Crisfield's municipal election, resulted in the success of the People's ticket by a large majority. Politics did not enter into the contest. The People's ticket was headed by Elmer R. Gandy for mayor, with J. E. Pruitt and Charles F. Richardson for councilmen. The Citizens' ticket was composed of Benjamin F. Gibson for mayor and George M. Collins for councilman.

Confederate Memorial Day was observed in Frederick Saturday by Fitzhugh Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Alexander Young Camp, of Confederate Veterans. The Rev. F. F. Neel, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church, was the orator of the day, and Albert S. Brown, master of ceremonies. A service was held in Mount Olivet Cemetery, after which the graves of soldiers in Mount Olivet and St. John's Cemetery were decorated.

Cora Hartman, 12-year-old daughter of Edward Hartman, an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio as pumper, at Washington Junction, was struck by the Baltimore and Hagerstown train No. 41 and instantly killed. The girl was standing on westbound track while an eastbound freight train was passing, right near her home, and did not hear the oncoming train. Engineer Gannon did not see the child until within several hundred feet of her, and tried hard to stop and repeatedly sounded the whistle.

Mrs. Mary E. Gower, aged 40, wife of William J. Gower, of Hagerstown, died Tuesday. Surviving are her husband and three children, Lula M., Harry H. and Frederick Gower.

$65,000 Y. M. C. A. FOR SALISBURY.

Work On Jackson Memorial Building Will Begin Next Week.

Salisbury.—The plans for the memorial Young Men's Christian Association building to be erected here by Mrs. Nannie R. Jackson as a memorial to her late husband, Governor Jackson, are now in the hands of the contractors. The intention is to start work at once and the contractors must give bond to have the building completed by November 1. The building will be 50 by 100 feet, three stories and basement. It will be of Colonial brick, laid Flemish bond, terra cotta and iron. The first floor will contain a spacious entrance hall, cloak rooms, men's room, with an auditorium 40 by 60 feet, kitchen, pantry and furnishings for banquets. The second floor will contain a large library, writing room, big game room, billiard parlor and gymnasium. The third floor has 12 bedrooms and shower baths. The building was designed by Clyde N. Friz, of Baltimore. The structure is estimated to cost $65,000. When completed it will be the handsomest structure of its kind in Maryland outside of Baltimore city and will be handsomely furnished by Mrs. Jackson.

POLITICS IN SCHOOL CHARGED.

Selection Of Trustees At Fairplay By Patrons Scored.

Hagerstown.—Trouble has broken out in the Fairplay School over the re-appointment of William Leatherman, William Groff and Jacob M. Middlekauff as district trustees at the recent meeting of the patrons of the school. Dissatisfied patrons who alleged that the patrons' meeting was packed and that politics controlled the selection of trustees, filed with the County School Board the names of Charles Coffman, David Palmer and H. R. Reichard, and asked that they be appointed. The School Board, however, indorsed the action of the regular patrons' meeting. Mr. Middlekauff, one of the reappointed trustees, who is also a County Commissioner, in a public statement denied that the meeting had been "carefully and completely planned beforehand," and says the statement that the election of the trustees was effected by "persons incapable of choosing men for this or any other position" is "an insult to the intelligence of those who attended the patrons' meeting and a reflection upon their integrity."

The present trustees, two of whom are Democrats and one Republican, were re-elected by a vote of 11 to 6. The principal of Fairplay School is a Republican.

Maryland Postmasters Named.

Loses $10,000 Damage Suit.

Hagerstown.—The jury in the case of George Snotterly, who sued William A. Ford, a Hagerstown merchant, for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained last October when he was thrown from a motorcycle that was struck by Ford's automobile, returned a verdict for Ford. Snotterly was riding on the motorcycle behind Oscar Reed, who owned the machine. Reed, who was also injured, has a $10,000 damage suit against Ford now pending.

ROYALTY FEARS MILITANT FURIES

Paid Money For Immunity From Attacks.

BLACKMAIL MAY BE CHARGED

Lists Captured Show Names Of King and Other Members Of Household—Nobility Under Tribute.

London.—Police raids on the new militant suffragette headquaretrs resulted in the discovery that several members of the royal family, including the Prince of Wales, have been regular contributors to the militant funds, while the Queen tried to contribute, but her offer was refused.

These contributions do not mean that royalty favors the militants. On the contrary, it really amounts to paying for immunity for the persons and property of the royal family from militant attacks.

When the raids were made and the lists of subscribers found the Government hastily announced that it would immediately begin prosecutions on the charge of supporting a criminal organization, but minute examination disclosed among the subscribers several royalties, including the Duchess of Teck, the Duchess of Fife, the Princesses Teck, Christian and Royal, and still further investigation showed immunity payments made in the name of the Prince of Wales, who so frequently argued with his father and mother in favor of suffrage that there was uncertainty as to what category his contribution came under.

Queen's Offer Rejected.

It was also learned that the Queen offered a subscription of $5,000 if the militants would agree to stop annoying their Majesties, but this subscription was refused, the militants being unwilling to lose their most valuable advertising privilege.

Among the others in the list are the Duchesses of Portland and Westminster and many Americans, including the Duchess of Marlborough, the Countess of Essex and Lady Cunard.

American hostesses in London had been left conspicuously alone by the militants. Detective agencies which, since the season began, have had female detectives at every society function to guard against militant outrages told the police that they were never called in by American hostesses.

May Prosecute For Blackmail.

When the royal names were found on the list the Government had to give up the idea of prosecutions of subscribers and is now considering prosecutions of the militants for blackmail.

IMMIGRATION AT HIGH TIDE.

Aliens Coming In At the Rate Of 2,900 Every Week Day.

Washington, D. C.—Immigrants arrived at American ports at the rate of more than 2,900 every week day during the first 10 months of the fiscal year of 1914, and indications are that by June 30, when the fiscal year ends, the greatest number of immigrants ever admitted during any year will have entered. Statistics of the Bureau of Immigration for April and the 10 months ended in April show 119,885 were admitted in that month, and the total for the 10 months was 1,038,956. Should May and June arrivals equal the number admitted during those months in previous years, the 1914 total would be approximately 1,351,000 immigrants. The greatest number arriving in one year heretofore was 1,285,349 in 1907.

SCALPED IN AUTO WRECK.

Former Baltimorean Severely Injured At Olney, Va.

Onancock, Va.—Charles Walker, formerly of Baltimore; W. W. Nack, Clarence and John Custis were injured Sunday at Olney when an automobile in which they were riding ran into a store porch and turned turtle. Mr. Walker's scalp was torn from his head and both legs broken. The other men were less seriously hurt.

Huntington, W. Va.—Miss Annette Harvey, one of the social leaders of this city, has accepted a position as teacher of dramatic arts in the high school. She will have control of sewing and art work courses. Miss Harvey is a daughter of Coin Harvey, of Arkansas, the famous free silver advocate, and a sister of Thomas Harvey, of this city.

FLED FROM ENRAGED WOMAN

Bear Proved More Than Match for Husband, but Ran When Attacked by Victim's Wife.

A. B. McCloskey, a farmer near Hyner, was attacked by a she bear in his barnyard and so seriously wounded that it is feared he may die. The bear came into the yard in search of food. McCloskey shot at the animal with a small caliber target gun and wounded it. The bear threw him to the ground and badly mangled his left arm and leg. The animal was driven off by Mrs. McCloskey, who beat it with a club. A party of farmers started in pursuit of the animal over the mountains later in the day.

The experience of McCloskey is unique in this section of the state and caused great excitement in the vicinity of Hyner, where the party of farmers quickly gathered and started out in pursuit of the bear, under the leadership of B. B. McCloskey, the Pennsylvania railroad station agent at Hyner, who is the wounded man's brother. They hunted over the mountains near McCloskey's home during the greater part of the day, but were unable to find any trace of the animal. The same bear is believed to have carried off a live calf from a neighboring farm several days ago.—Williamsport (Pa.) Dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

Discovering the Real Mexico.

Some of the correspondents with the army at Vera Cruz are acquiring a knowledge of Mexico which they are imparting to their readers to the benefit of the public. They are learning that cities founded by the conquering Spaniards before Jamestown or Plymouth began are not mere adobe villages, but are architecturally reminiscent of Spain in its heroic age. One correspondent admits that all the public buildings in Vera Cruz are good "and compare favorably with what we have at home."

If the scribes to whom real Mexico is a revelation keep on with their journeyings that may come to Puebla and see the great professional library of one hundred thousand volumes attached to the medical school. In the City of Mexico there are many structures that delight traveling architects.

Mexico is not all "militaristas" and "peons," though its trouble has always been too many of the former. There are cultured people in Mexico who find in culture a refuge from the turmoil of their disturbed republic.—Boston Transcript.

Man's Life Outlays.

An eccentric personage has just died in a town in the west of France at the age of seventy-seven. When he was eighteen years of age he began to keep a book of personal expenses. For 52 years he jotted down every item.

During this period he smoked 628,713 cigars. Of thus number 43,692 were presented to him by friends. For the remaining 595,021 he spent the sum of £2,040.

He had bought 86 pairs of trousers, which cast him £92; 75 jackets and waistcoats for £160, and 62 pairs of shoes for £66. He used 300 shirts and 354 collars, for which he paid £53. His omnibus and tram fares came to £52. In 15 years he drank 28,875 bocks and 40,303 small glasses of liquor, and spent on them £1,104, plus £249 in tips.—Glasgow Evening News.

Pigeon's Fast Flight.

The Lanarkshire (Scotland) Homing federation had a most successful race from Dumfries the other week, and many of the birds covered the distance to their lofts at a speed of over sixty miles an hour.

The fastest performance that has been reported in the race was that of a pigeon belonging to Messrs. Steuart Brothers of Larkhall, which accomplished the journey at the rate of fully sixty-six miles an hour. In pigeon-flying these fast velocities can only be accomplished when the birds have the wind behind them, and should a pigeon have to face a moderate head wind, its speed would be only about thirty miles an hour.

HYPNOTISM FOR THE AILING

Famous French Physician Claims to Be Able to Cure Many of the Ills of Mankind.

Dr. Bertillon of Paris asserts that psychotherapia, or soul-culture, is the medicine of the future.

He does not put his patients into hynotic trances, but places them in an environment which creates an appetite for sleep. He invites them to repose on their beds and think of nothing. Then he leaves them, and they gradually succumb to the "tick-tack of a metronome.

When a patient is in a hypnotic slumber, if it is desired that he shall be cured of a tendency to excessive indulgence in alcohol, the psychotherapist suggests to him that he cannot raise a glass of absinthe to his lips, and repeats the suggestion until the prohibition is so engraved upon the brain that if the patient would he could not do so.

Dr. Bertillon is frequently consulted by those who have had unhappy love affairs, and it is said that through hypnotism they obtain release from their unrequited passion.
